

Maajii-Ojibwemowag
(They Begin to Speak Ojibwe)

Bagwaji-zhigaagawaanzhiig

Stories of the Plants:
A Zhaawanong Book

Wabigon was going for a walk with her maamaa, her dede, and Gookom.

They were going to the place where Gookom grew up.

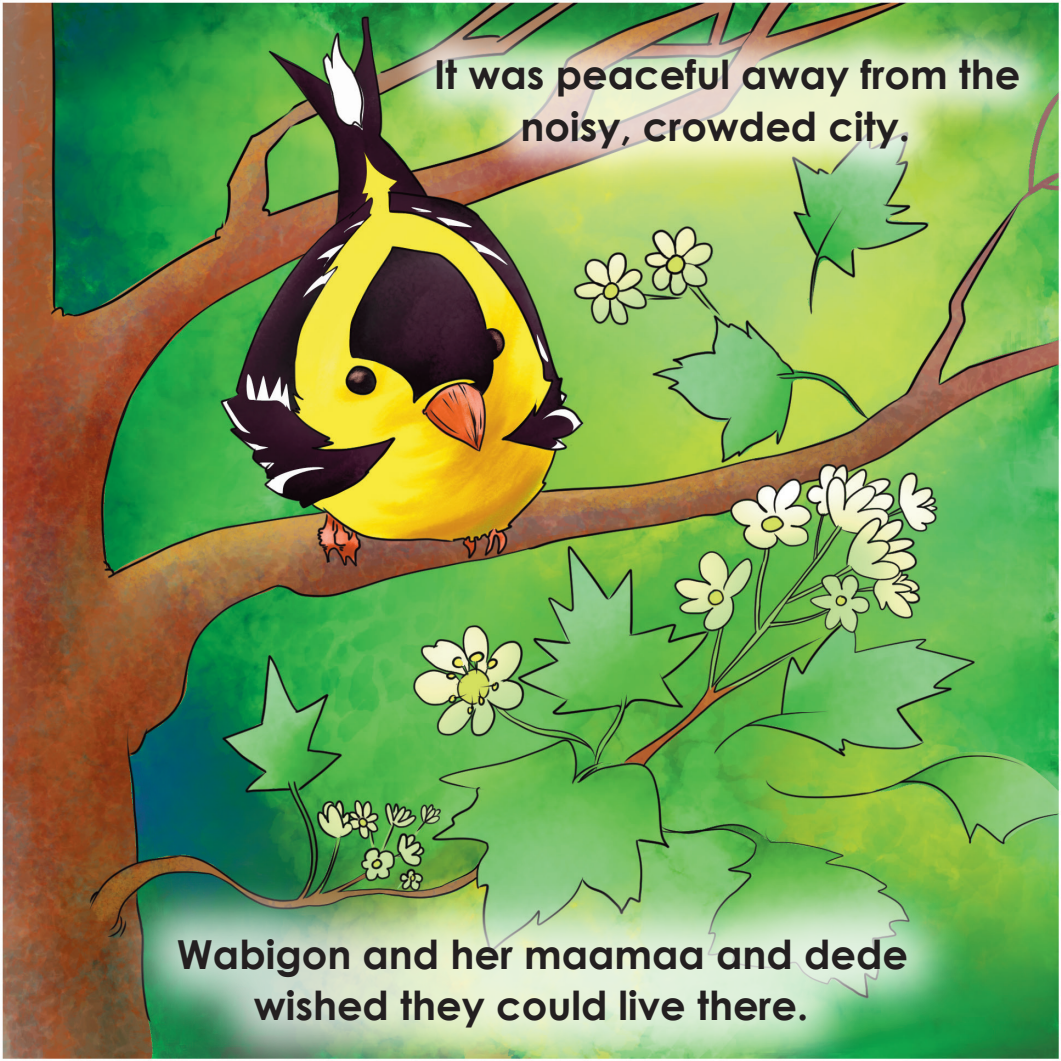

They walked down past some railroad tracks to a place called Ishpi-aazhogan by the people who lived there in Odaawaa'zaaga'iganing.

It was early spring.

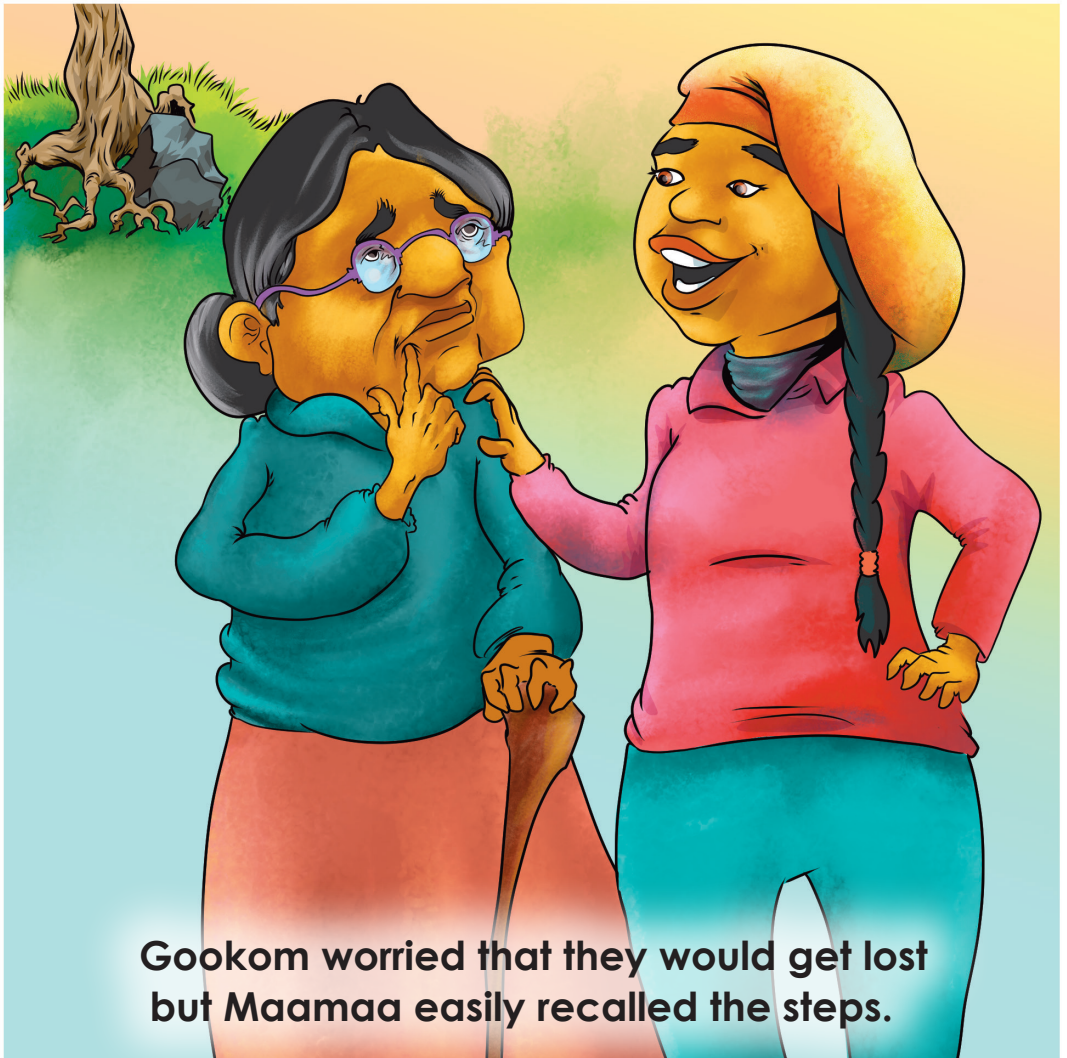

The mitigoog and mitigoonsag were lime green.

A vibrant illustration of a yellow and black bird, possibly a chickadee, perched on a brown tree branch. The bird has a bright yellow body with black wings and a black cap with a white patch on its back. It has a small, pointed orange beak and is looking towards the right. The background is a lush green landscape with several white flowers and green leaves. The scene is framed by a brown tree trunk on the left and a brown branch on the right.

It was peaceful away from the noisy, crowded city.

Wabigon and her maamaa and dede wished they could live there.

Gookom worried that they would get lost but Maama easily recalled the steps.

They arrived safely and offered their asemaa imaa.

As they continued on the miikanensing, an aroma caught Maamaa's attention.

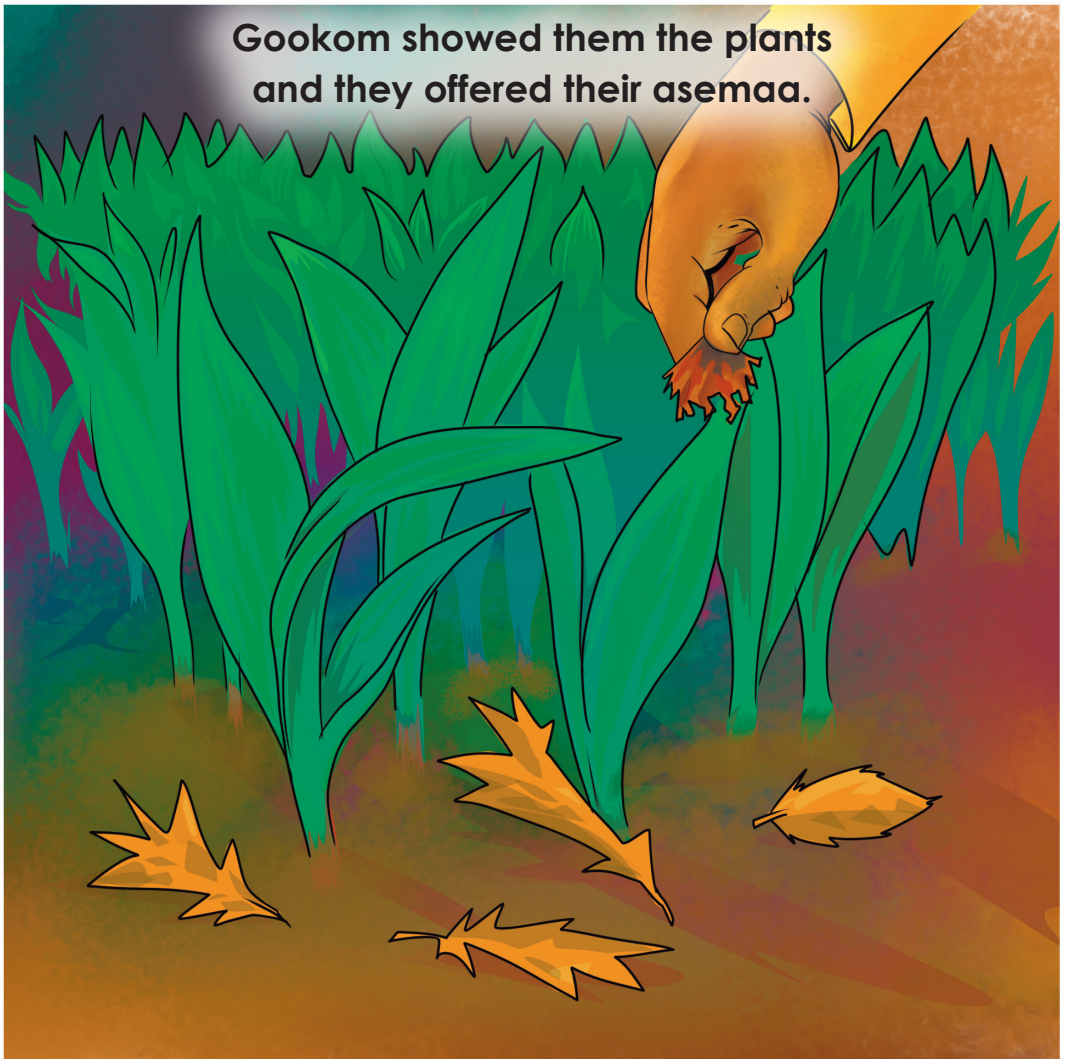

“Awegonen is that smell?” Maamaa asked Gookom.

Gookom replied, “We are standing in the middle of a patch of bagwaji-zhigaagawaanzhiig!”

Gookom showed them the plants and they offered their asemaa.

They picked the tops and leaves off of some of the bagwaji-zhigaagawaanzhiig.

Gookom showed them how to use the plants to make bagwaji-zhigaagawaanzhiig nabooob and pizza.

From that day on, they would pick bagwaji-zhigaagawaanzhiig every year.

Maajii-Ojibwemowag (They Begin to Speak Ojibwe)

Zhaawanong Book Set:

Stories of the Plants

Tribal Storytellers -

Anabiikwe (Cleo White) ~White Earth Nation

Mezinaanakwad (Dennis White)

~Lac Courte Oreilles Band of Lake Superior Chippewa

Illustration and Layout - Niiyogiizhig (Wesley Ballinger)

~Mille Lacs Band of Ojibwe

Language/Outreach Specialist - Gizhibawaanakwadook (Misty Peterson)

~Fond du Lac Band of Lake Superior Chippewa and Ontario First Nation, Couchiching

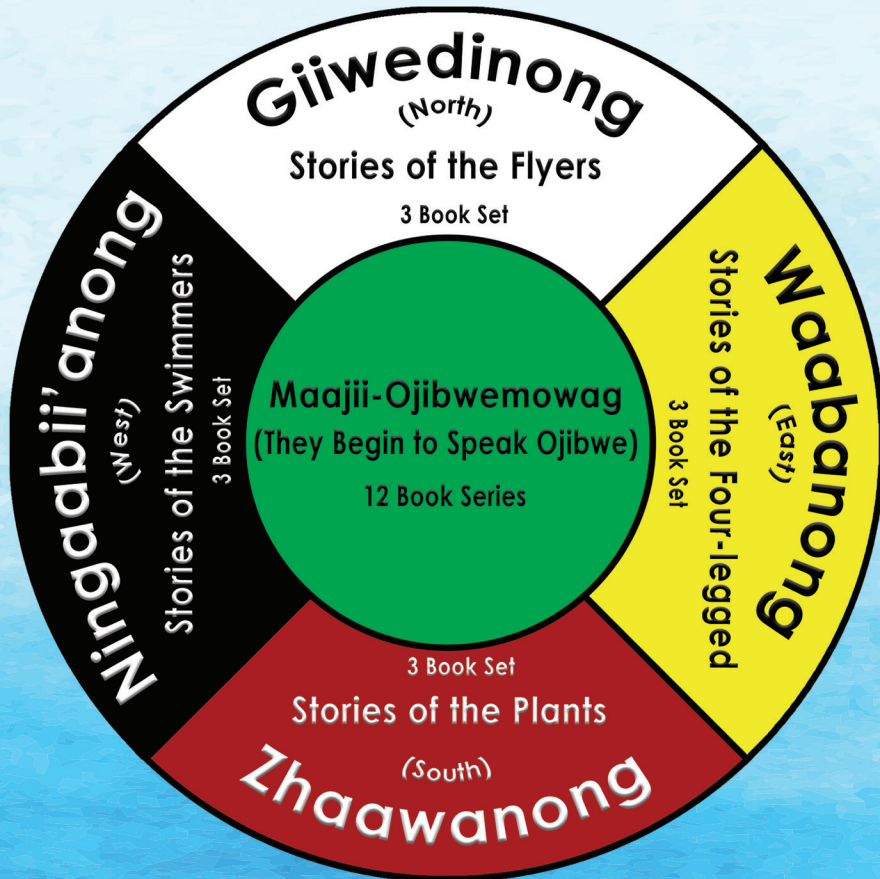

Intermedia Web Design and Layout- Melissa Maund Rasmussen

Project Director - Animikii Ikwe (LaTisha Coffin)

~Bad River Band of Lake Superior Chippewa

www.glifwc-inwe.com

www.glifwc-inwe.com

This publication was funded through a grant from the Administration for Native Americans (ANA), ACF, U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.